

NUMBER 64.

Columbus, O., Feb. 5.—Otis Hurley, one of the famous demons in the penitentiary, and Charles French, a 15-year convict from Cleveland for robbery, escaped from the penitentiary by going over the wall between the female department and the main eastern wing of the prison. They were captured before they got across the lawn.

Will you, citizens of Maysville, write at least one letter to some friend in the country and ask him to get his samples ready for the tobacco fair? This will be a great mid winter gathering of our tobacco growers and farmer friends. Let us make them feel welcome. Let all work for the success of the fair to be held on Washington's Birthday.

A DISINTERESTED WITNESS.

Dr. T. R. Hall, a Nebraskan physician, who boldly affirms that the medical profession of the West is not "made up of mental cripples," writes to the "Philadelphia Medical World":

"Mr. Editor: You state in the article I have referred to that any observant physician may be certain of his diagnosis in an epidemic of smallpox. I think so too. Now, I have given you the exact symptoms of these eight cases. What do you say? Dr. Towne, Secretary of the State Medical Board, has made several visits over the State, and pronounces everything that has a rash and is contagious, smallpox. But that does not help us out, as many of our best and most careful men say it is not smallpox. Professor Jones treated something similar in 1847. A similar affection was observed as early as 1812. After the Civil war a disease prevailed in some sections quite similar. One of my books classifies it as Lichen Americana. Now, Mr. Editor, I agree with you that the disease is new in this country. We are waiting for the scientific name you may give it. I may add that vaccination does not protect from this disease."

It is, however, incontrovertibly established that vaccination does protect against smallpox.

Readers who kept posted on the trial of the Goebel suspects last fall have not forgotten the antics of one Mr. Youtsey; how he carried on like a maniac at a critical stage of the case, and afterwards pretended to collapse and lay speechless for days. His mind was completely gone. It was claimed by sympathetic Republicans, and they held up their hands in horror that a man in that condition should be kept on trial. But Judge Cantrill had good reasons for believing Youtsey was shamming, and that there was "method in his madness," so the trial went on and Youtsey was given a life sentence. It was given out after the verdict that his lawyers would insist that he be tried on a writ of lunacy and a motion to that effect was entered. At Georgetown Monday Judge James F. Askew, one of the attorneys for the defendant, withdrew the motion made at the last term of court for an arrest of judgment on the ground that the facts stated in the indictment did not constitute a public offense, and that the mental condition of Youtsey at the time of his trial last summer be inquired into. So even his own attorneys believe now that he is not crazy, and he was no more crazy last fall than he is now. Is there longer any doubt of his guilt?

FREE LIBRARIES—A STRONG PLEA.
The celebrated English writer and philanthropist, Sir Walter Besant, contributes the following eulogy on free libraries to the February number of "The Century":

"What was the name of the benefactor to humanity who first invented, or discovered, the free library? Who was the philanthropist who first advocated the free library? I do not know. But when one realizes what the free library means, one is carried away by admiration and gratitude. By means of the free library we actually give to any person, however poor, we place in his hands as a free gift, the whole of the literature of the world. If he were a millionaire he could not possibly acquire a greater command than the poorest lad enjoys who lives near a good free library. Since none but good and worthy literature should be admitted to a free library, the readers cannot use its treasures without forming, purifying and elevating their taste in literature. New taste in literature leads naturally to corresponding taste as regards the major and minor virtues and their opposites. I look for the time, not far distant, when the demand for books by the mass of the public will be in itself a selection of the best and purest; when it will be impossible to reproach the people, as is done to-day, with buying the ephemeral trash that is offered at a penny, and neglect the scholars and the poets and the wise ones of ancient days. The free library is doing for the working people, what the circulating library cannot do for its readers who go in broad cloth and in silk. In the time to come, in the near future, it will be the latter who read the rubbish, and the former who will create the demand for the better literature."

EVEN HANNA

Should Blush at the Imprudent Intentions of the Ship Subsidy Scheme.

[New York World.]

The theory of all American legislation is that it is framed to promote "the greatest good of the greatest number," and never to benefit the few at the expense of the many. This wholesome theory has been utterly ignored by the framers of the ship subsidy bill, to pass which a last desperate effort is now to be made.

A careful analysis of the bill for the purpose of showing exactly how many pockets are to be benefited by it has just been sent out by its opponents in Congress. The bare facts disclosed by this analysis ought to make any Senator, even Mr. Hanna, blush to vote for it.

Of the whole list of ships that are entitled to the highest subsidy rate fixed by the bill nine-tenths are owned by four companies, to-wit, the International Navigation Company, the New York and Cuba Mail Company, the Pacific Mail Steamship Company and the American Mail Steamship Company.

Nine tenths of the smaller subsidy rates that would be paid on foreign-built steamers would also go to four concerns only, and these four are really only two operating under different names—namely, the Standard Oil trust and the Pennsylvania railroad.

Under the clauses which provide bounties for ships now building for foreign trade in American shipyards and half bounties for ships building abroad for American owners it appears further that less than a dozen ship owners and only four ship builders would be beneficiaries.

This, then, is what the ship subsidy bill would do, summed in a sentence: It would take from the pockets of 76,000,000 people $9,000,000 a year to put it into the pockets of less than two dozen private business concerns all told.

BOOST FOR PUGH.

Kentucky Delegation in Congress Indorse Him for District Judge—Expects Deboe's Support.

A special from Washington City says: "The situation in the race for the new Kentucky Federal Judgeship took a turn Monday, and now Representative Samuel J. Pugh, of the Ninth district, whose term will expire on March 4, is a leading candidate. The entire Kentucky delegation indorsed his candidacy, and while the President may see fit to disregard this action, it is thought that Pugh's stock has gone upward by many points."

"Mr. Pugh now has about all the indorsements on paper possible for him to obtain and with the concurrence of the House in the Senate amendments to the Kentucky Judicial bill Mr. Pugh and his friends will keep a well-beaten path to the White House. Senator Deboe has not yet expressed his choice for the Judgeship, but the friends of Mr. Pugh say that he will at the proper time jump in the Pugh band wagon."

"It is claimed that Senator Deboe has never yet failed to indorse Mr. Pugh or any of Mr. Pugh's friends for any position desired and that the junior Senator from Kentucky will be brought into line when the time comes. The Kentucky Judicial bill does not go into effect until the first day of July. The fight over the office, however, starts this week and from the moment the President signs the bill he will have his hands full. The President will bear a good deal of the several Republican factions in Kentucky in the next few weeks, and the Democrats may get not a little fun and benefit out of it."

AFTER FRANCHISE TAXES.

United Effort to Compel Corporations to Pay to Counties as Well as to the State.

VERSAILLES, Ky., Feb. 5th.—F. P. O'Donnell, County Attorney of Mason County, and Thos. W. Thomas, County Attorney of Warren County, arrived this morning to assist County Attorney Davis, of Woodford, in preparing the arguments of the railroad franchise tax case, which the County Attorneys are to make before the State Board of Valuation in Frankfort Thursday.

It involves the payment of a franchise tax by the railroad companies to each of the 119 counties in Kentucky as well as to the State.

Mrs. E. J. Dorsey, of Fleming, is dead at the age of sixty-three.

Had to Conquer or Die.

"I was just about gone," writes Mrs. Rosa Richardson, of Laurel Springs, N. C. "I had consumption so bad that the best doctors said I could not live more than a month, but I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery and was wholly cured by seven bottles and now stout and well." It's an unrivaled life-saver in consumption, pneumonia, la grippe and bronchitis; infallible for coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever, croup or whooping cough. Guaranteed bottles 50c. and $1. ARE YOU Interested?

There isn't a housewife within reach of Hunt's that hasn't reason to be interested in this linen sale, that is if she is an alert, wide-awake, watchful linen economist. We have linen from Ireland, Germany and France.

Linens woven from good, clean, round threads that will wear into the next generation—just linens, pure linens, the best that can be had for the price—far better than most dealers offer—that's why we supply most of the linen wants of Maysville. Here is some linen news that has not yet had a hearing. There are so many good things at the linen counter, they must needs be mentioned briefly. However volumes couldn't tell the story—you must see the goods.

HUCKABAC TOWELS.

20x36 inches, full or half bleached, 10c. Larger size and heavier towels, full bleached, 12½c.

Next size, closer weave, 15c.
Glasgow double birdseye Huck, 24x40, 19c.
The above are hemmed and are all white or have pretty red and blue borders. All white hemstitched Huck from Ireland, made of best yarns. Those who have paid 25c. for their like have not paid too much. To-day and here, only 19c.

D. HUNT & SON.

I Have Decided to Leave Maysville at Once,

And will offer for sale my entire stock of Clothing and everything contained in store known as Jno. T. Martin & Co.'s Clothing Store, including Fixtures, Tables, desk, Safe, Cash Register, Sewing Machines, &c. These goods will be sold with the view of closing them out, without regard to cost or quantity. City merchants, county merchants and surrounding country merchants, now is your chance if you have CASH. All goods will be marked in plain figures; all sold for cash. None on approval and no exchanges.

I Also Offer One Six-Room Brick Dwelling House, With Stable,

on lot situated on Fourth street, near Limestone, and my farm containing one hundred and thirty-four acres on Hill City turnpike, about three miles from Maysville. All buildings, except tobacco barn and cabin, built by me in the past three years, consisting of a seven-room dwelling, hen house, meat house, carriage house and shop combined, blacksmith shop, double corn crib, stable with six horse and eight cow stalls, center feedway; implement shed and two wagon sheds 10x35 feet. For further information apply at the store.

DIED LAST NIGHT.

Widow of the Late Mat Collins Passed Away Last Night at Her Home in the Fifth Ward.

Mrs. Mat Collins died last night at her home on Third street, Fifth ward, of general debility. She was a native of County Sligo, Ireland, and was seventy-three years of age.

Fifty-two years ago she was married to Mr. Collins, and this happy union was unbroken until nineteen years ago, when her faithful companion was called to his reward. They are survived by five sons and one daughter. Mrs. Collins was a devoted member of the church, and her life was full of good deeds.

The funeral will take place Thursday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Patrick's Church. Burial at Washington.

MRS. NANCY LEE.

Death This Morning Claimed the Mother of the Late Mrs. James Lashbrook.

Mrs. Nancy C. Lee, widow of R. H. Lee, died this morning at 3 o'clock at her home near Rectorville, of pneumonia, aged seventy.

She is survived by three sons and two daughters, S. B. of Weston, Mo., R. H. and Parker, of this county, Mrs. R. S. Hull, of Lewis County and Mrs. Sudie Walker, of Cincinnati. Mrs. Lee was the mother of the late Mrs. James Lashbrook, and leaves a large circle of friends in Mason and Lewis.

The funeral arrangements have not been announced.

BASKET BALL.

The "Yankees" Won the Initial Contest With the Heinies Last Night—Clean and Interesting Game.

The first of the series of games to be played by the basket ball league came off last night. Considering the fact that many of the men were new players and had never been in the game before, it was very clean and interesting. The men are to be congratulated upon their work. With the experience that playing a few games together will give them both teams will be able to put up a fine game ere long. A large crowd of visitors witnessed the sport. The boys are always glad to see them and hope they will come again. The line-up was as follows:

Yankees—Chas. Slack, goal; Arthur Helmer, goal; Pearl Blythe, center; Lafayette Snedcor, Guard; Leonard Sparks, guard.
Heinies—Robert Rasp, Guard; Wm. Slitz, goal; H. C. Curran, Center; Lou. Shower, guard; Benson Orr, goal; Sam Daugherty, goal.
Benson Orr played in first half and Sam Daugherty, second half. Score 29 to 17 in favor of the Yankees.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Sale of Seats Points to a Large Attendance at the Opera House To-Night.

No Frenchman has been so widely read on this side of the Atlantic as Alexander Dumas. No English actor had the scholarly ability of the late Charles Coghlan. No English actor has ever been so idolized in London as was Edmund Kean. Dumas wrote the original play from which was adapted "The Royal Box," which is to be given at the opera house here to-night.

Charles Coghlan made the adaptation and the central character of the story Edmund Kean, although in the English version another name has been given him. To the above comparisons it might be added that none of our younger actors of to-day are so well fitted to the leading role as Andrew Robson, who will appear in it here. According to the critics he has many advantages over Coghlan himself. He has youth, more fire, a better physique and far greater personal magnetism. He has not contented himself with these only, however, as he has surrounded himself with a strong company and a scenic environment of great beauty and cost.

In Memoriam.

On Jan. 12 after an illness of three weeks, little Ella Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. E. Asbury, died at their home near Fern Leaf, of scarlet fever. The Juvenile Missionary Society express their sympathy to the bereaved parents, brothers and sister, and to Ella Mae's memory dedicate these lines of love:

When all were happy and by the and gay,
Our home was saddened with grief;
And loving parents by the bedside of dear little Ella Mae,
Prayed she might escape the last sweet sleep.

But our Father doeth all things well;
He took unto himself our dear little lamb;
And now in heaven with angels she sings,
As here she did with our little band.

The home a ray of sunshine lost,
Our band a little jewel;
But we will try to bear the cross,
And in heaven greet our sister with a sweet renewal.

PITHY POINTS.

It looks reasonable that a Nation should be able to hold her own against a single State.

Mrs. Nation might be said to be filling the popular eye while she empties whiskey bottles.

Likely the next we shall hear of Death and his company of good fellows is that they have been pardoned for good behavior.

While Mrs. Nation may not be said to be a pink of propriety, she certainly asserts herself in the faces of saloon proprietors.

Taylor likely would be happy could he be assured that his presence were not desired in Kentucky any more than it is in Indiana.

Mrs. Nation is hard to beat at her particular line, although she has been set upon pretty ferociously by more than one whiskey seller.

If there are any worse men in the New Jersey penitentiary than will be added to it by the ingress of Death and his associates, the State must smell to high heaven.

The New Jersey trusts have cheated the people, and now comes along a New Jersey jury and cheats the galleys of its just dues, in the matter of Death and his partners.

Taylor may come to think Indiana is a mighty inhospitable if they indulge in much more talk about sending him home, as lately took place in their Legislature.

Taylor may have thought he had a call to Indiana, but it may yet develop that it was of the kind that the fellow in Texas thought he had to preach, it was only some one calling hogs.

Mrs. Nation, it seems, doesn't believe either in holding on to the bung or spigot, when it comes to a whiskey barrel, but rather in turning both loose, thus doing away with the old adage.

No matter what ugly caper men may cut here, providing they may put the river between themselves and this State, or to use their own phraseology, "Get on your side," they imagine they have wiped out all scores.

Death and the other members of that New Jersey gang of murderers are to be such models of propriety, according to the card they issue, that it will be a rather delicate task to find a place for them in the penitentiary.

The hospitality of Kentucky is proverbial, while that of Indiana we are not so well informed in regard to. But it now seems that her lack of this virtue has been emphasized, in the matter of requesting her visitor, Taylor, to leave for his home.

Why Women Are Nervous.

[British Medical News.]

The frequent cases of nervous prostration or utter collapse of the nervous system under which women "go all to pieces," as the saying is, have caused much thought and investigation on the part of physicians.

Certain inorganic substances are well known to cause various forms of nervous diseases which are readily traced to the poisons producing them.

Further research leads to the belief that alum is a prevailing cause of so-called nervous prostration, for the symptoms it produces on the nervous system after its absorption into the blood are very remarkable indeed.

Experiments physiologically made upon animals by Orfila, Professors Hans Mayer, Paul Selim and others, show that alum frequently produces no visible symptoms for many days after its introduction into the body. Then follow loss of appetite and other alimentary disturbances, and finally a serious prostration of the whole nervous system.

The most prominent physicians now believe that "nervous prostration" and many affections of the nerves from which both men and women suffer are caused by the absorption of alum into the system.

It is probable that many medical men are unaware of the extent to which salts of alumina may be introduced into the body, being under the impression that the use of alum in bread is prohibited.

Alum, however, is still used surreptitiously to some extent to whiten bread, and very largely in making cheap kinds of baking powder. In families where baking powder is generally used great care should be exercised to procure only those brands made from cream of tartar.

The alum powders may generally be distinguished by the lower price at which they are sold.
